Hoping that this book will eventually become a mirror of past experiences enjoyed at the High School of Charleston, the 1951 Staff presents this edition of the Charlestonian. May it, in time, be your key to the past so that you may flavor the future with experiences of days gone by.

As a sign of our appreciation, we gratefully dedicate the 1951 edition of The Charlestonian to one of the greatest players and coaches ever at Charleston High, and to one who exemplifies the best qualities of an understanding teacher, Ephie Seabrook, Bantam football coach 1935-1949.

To the faculty goes our heartfelt and sincere gratitude for their kindness and understanding throughout our years at the High School. They have helped and guided us through the ups and downs of our high school days.

Also we wish to express our appreciation to the Parent-Teacher Association for their moral and financial support of student functions. Their spirited cooperation and helpful suggestions have accounted for the success of many school activities.

"Billy and Bunny"
We lift our hats to the Faculty

Seniors . . .

For the first time in the history of Charleston High, boys and girls have worked together in studies and in outside activities. There have always been officers who have worked for the good of the Senior Class, but this year the students tried something different. Each class chose a president and a representative to comprise the membership of the Senior Board. Its purpose was to straighten out any difficulty that might arise in the Senior Class. The Senior Board began its work for the year by selecting the Annual Staff. Later it chose Mr. Uzzell as its advisor. The Board sponsored the Ring Dance for the Juniors and the Senior Ball on the night before graduation.

HISTORY

WE have reached the end of the road now, and the diplomas that we have received signify that our high school days are over. But now that we have those pieces of paper which mean so much, we hardly know whether to heave a sigh of relief or one of regret. It's hard to believe that after struggling so hard to get out of high school, we could be so reluctant to leave it. But we have the satisfaction of knowing that we've made history while we have been here. We are the first co-educational graduation class in the history of the High School of Charleston. It seems now that girls have revolutionized the old school, and they have done a good job; but it hasn't always been like this. As a matter of fact, one would never recognize this school as being the same as the one which the frosh of '46 entered. Things have changed since then.

"You have just been initiated into the friendly fellowship of high school fraternity," was the way in which Mr. Henry Strohecker expressed it as we staggered into the chapel to be welcomed. We knew that we had been initiated, but in a manner which was entirely unexpected—and some of us still have scars to prove it. Our first year was an experience never to be forgotten. We had to learn how to study, because from the first minute on, we were on our own. We idolized the seniors, and despised the juniors and sophomores. We cheered at the football games and worshipped the players, even though they would not condescend to even sneer at us. But even though we were sometimes persecuted in a manner similar to that of the early Christians, we not only lived through it but we loved it.

Our sophomore year was one of many changes. The beloved old Memminger High School was condemned to be razed and some of its all-girl student body was forced to come to CHS. We were confounded at first. No one could picture the drab halls, which for a hundred twelve years had echoed to nothing but the ribald and boisterous laughter of male voices, being filled with the colorful beauty of Charleston's flowering womanhood. But with the girls came a new attitude toward student life. Their zest and activity permeated the very halls and soon the old school took a new lease on life. The Bantam spirit, instead of being extinguished, acquired new meaning in our hearts, and being a part of CHS meant more than it ever had before.

It was with this inspiration that we entered our junior year. The never-ending toil over the books continued, but we didn't mind too much, because we had come to realize that the faculty weren't such demons after all, and that most of them really wanted us to pass. Mr. Strohecker had taken a position as registrar at the University of South Carolina and we had a new principal in the person of Mr. David Stoney. He quickly adjusted himself to our needs and problems and cooperated with us in every way. By now, we had come to assume various positions of leadership in the school and had begun to prepare ourselves to be seniors. We felt a great loss when Coach E. C. Seabrook resigned as head coach of the football team. For fifteen years Coach Ephie had turned out teams which had brought fame and honor to the Rutledge Avenue Institution, but he had decided to call it "quits" and settle down to teaching. His job was well done. Spring came tripping in and sneaking right behind it came exams. The end-of-the year test claimed a few of the unwary, but most of us were ready and eager when fall came.

The time had come at last! No longer did we look up to anyone. We were on top of the totem pole now, and it felt good! But added responsibility was also placed upon us, because we had to set the example for the others, now. We set busily about the various tasks which had to be accomplished. The Annual Staff began its labors once again and the other organizations continued to function. Many memories were impressed upon us. A dream of many years was finally realized. For the first time, we had a gymnasium to call our own . . . the football season had its share of thrills in the upset victory the Birds pulled over the North Charleston Blue Devils . . . the thirtieth anniversary of Joe Conyers as janitor of the school and trainer of the football team was celebrated. "Ol Huss" has taken care of teams at the high school since 1920.

These and other things enriched our lives and experiences at CHS, but the time has come when we must leave the old school and enter into various walks of life. But though we may venture far away, our thoughts and actions will always be influenced by the many hours of work and play spent at the school which will always be dear to our hearts, the High School of Charleston.

FOOTBALL BANTAMS

The Bantams started the football season with many new faces in the squad, a new coaching staff and an entirely new style of play—the tricky split-T system. At first this change over was rather difficult. But Coach Ed McLendon and Assistant Coach Hank Carver with complete cooperation of the players, kept at it. Then the Bantams caught on and polished it off to perfection.

Although we lost our first game to the Bishops, we ended the season with a smashing victory over the North Charleston Blue Devils. So, all's well that ends well—and another season of football is written on the pages of Bantam history.

BASEBALL TEAM

Taking over his first year as Bantam Baseball Coach, Coach McLendon did a fine job in forming a team with the few key men from last year and a new crop that showed up well. Thus the Baseball Bantams continued in fine fashion to have a wonderful team.

The track squad of 1951 had eight returning lettermen from the 1950 squad plus the new men who filled the empty berths on the team. Under the able direction of Coach Warren, the cinder-men chalked up another fine year.

TRACK TEAM

S O C C E R

Not to be outdone, the Bantam girls' basketball, volleyball, soccer, and softball teams recorded impressive victories this year, with the characteristic fighting spirit of Bantams, made famous in former years by many boys' teams of CHS.

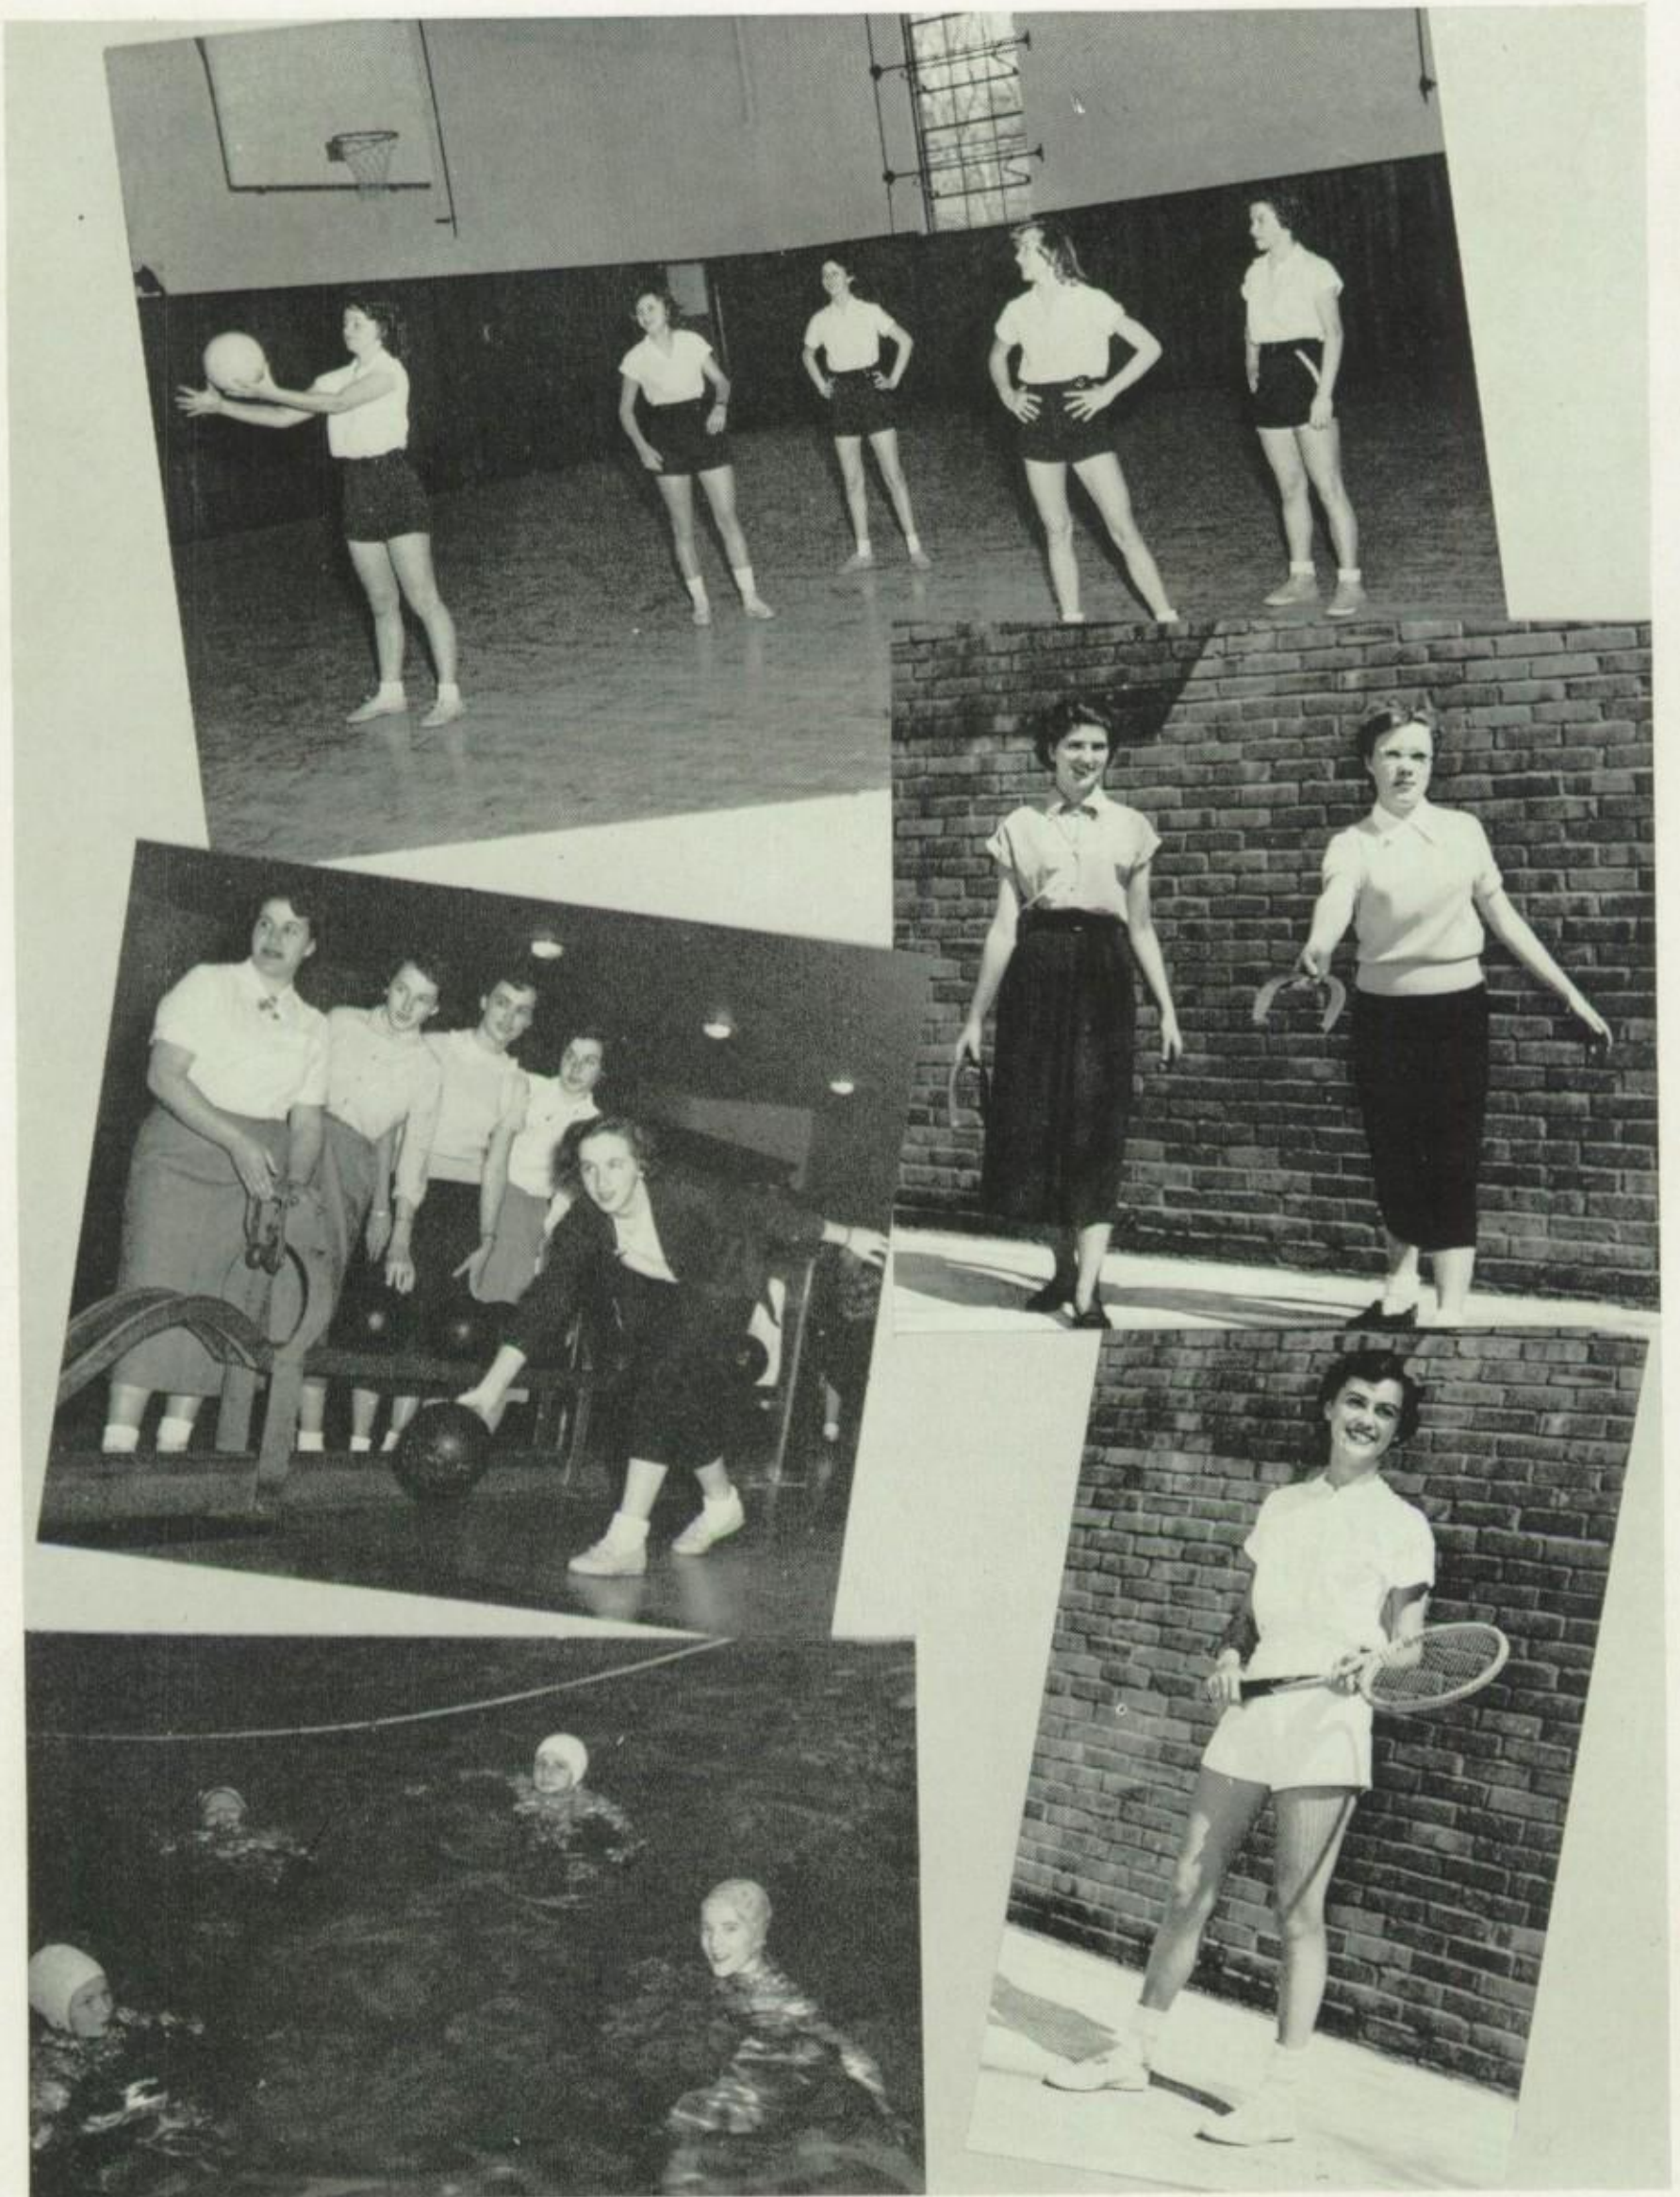

Bowling, swimming, tennis, and horseshoes are also included on the girls' sport calendar.

We are fortunate in having such an interesting and varied program. No wonder that CHS teamwork and good sportsmanship are tops.

ANNUAL STAFF

Because we wanted to give the student body the best possible yearbook, we had co-editors, co-business managers, and a large working staff. This is the first year that girls have had top positions on the staff.

DOLLY JEAN DENNIS and JANE MOORE are our co-editors; ANN BROWN and CREIGHTON HAY are our co-business managers.

We of The Charlestonian Staff hope we have succeeded in our aim to bring you the people and places you will long remember when you think of Charleston High. May this book be a permanent record of the things you held dear at CHS.

Much of the credit for the successful publication of our annual goes to Miss Daisy Mae Roberts, the advisor to The 1951 Charlestonian, whose tireless efforts enabled us to reach our goal.

JACK STILWELL
President of the Student Body

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council of the High School of Charleston underwent a complete change in activity program this year. The primary purpose in this change of administrative policy was to give the student body more voice in self-government, thereby increasing school spirit.

Functioning for the first time under a legal, student-adopted constitution, the council concentrated its endeavors upon being a governing body rather than a service club. In this capacity, it created an inter-club council which acted as a coordinating body for student activity. The council was instrumental in delegating many worthy projects to be performed by the various service clubs.

BANTAM

Virginia Kloeppel was the first girl in the twenty-five-year history of the "Bantam" to be its editor.

Perfectly Proofread

With the cooperation of a small staff, "The Bantam" had a successful year. As usual we sponsored the Miss CHS Contest and used the proceeds to send delegates to the annual SCSPA Convention at Newberry, S. C. The staff of "The Bantam" hopes it has kept the standards set by earlier staffs of having not only the oldest high school newspaper in the South, but also one of the best.

VIRGINIA KLOEPPEL

KEY CLUB

For his outstanding abilities Laurence Wood was elected their president by the members of the Key Club.

LAURENCE WOOD

We Worked On Our Project

The local chapter of the Key Club, Kiwanis sponsored international youth organization, continued its unique program of service to the school, community, and its members, this year under the leadership of Laurence Wood. The only service club of its kind in the school, one of its primary purposes is to mold the character of the school's most outstanding leaders by placing them in contact with the leaders of the community while performing its service projects. Not only the club but the whole school considers it a great honor that one of our student body was elected International President for 1951. In addition to carrying out their service program, the Key Clubbers played convention hosts to over four hundred fellow members from all over North and South Carolina. Their work and interest played an important part in making the convention a success.

BILLY MILLAR
President of the Honor Society

HONOR SOCIETY

For the third year since its formation, the Honor Society has tried to promote character, scholarship, leadership, and service at the High School. Among some of its many services this year, the Society sold supplies during recess. But the primary aim of the Honor Society is to promote scholarship; so every six weeks it presented the Honor Class banner to the class with the highest average of pupils on the honor roll.

Several times this year the Society provided movies for the entertainment and instruction of the student body. They also helped to beautify the grounds around our new gym.

F. T. A.

The FTA seeks to train young people through practice for professional and civic leadership. The club encourages the students to cultivate qualities of personality and character. It acquaints them with the part free schools have played in the development of our democratic way of life and provides them with specific information about opportunities in the various fields of education.

LIBRARY CLUBS

There are two library clubs in the school. One is the CHS chapter of the South Carolina Student Librarians' Association, which is composed of students who work as assistants in the Library; the other is the Library Representatives' Club, which is composed of a member chosen by each homeroom class.

As Mayor of the City of Charleston, I congratulate you on the outstanding work you are doing. One of the main hopes for world peace is the complete and truthful education of our young people.

The High School of Charleston has always been one of the leading educational institutions of its kind in the South and has educated many of our business and professional leaders. As long as there are institutions of learning such as this in our midst, we can hope for a peaceful and progressive future.

Ely Mullins

we had a grand time this year, "Bunny" & wish you and Billy all the happiness in the world. (you'll need it!)
I'll think of you when I'm on the Island this summer. (Ho-Ho!)
Lots of love,
Zally

Bunny,

Everybody says
lots of luck, but I'll just say.

Stay as sweet as you are, and you won't need luck.

Always

Lots of luck and all the happiness in the world to you and Billy.

Bessy Pritchard

Bunny,
Be Layne
sweet always

Dear "Bun",

Well, old gal you are going to leave me this year, heh? All by my self, too. But we have this summer. (If you don't devote your entire time to Mr. Millar.)

Remember last summer on the island at Aunt Carolyn's. Boy, we had fun. Will have to do that again this year.

Bun, did you know that you are one of the best friends I ever had? Well, you are. I know we are going to continue to be good friends even ~~when~~ when you are out of school.

How about the little arguments we used to get into (some weren't so little), but they were fun. Watching you shoot off your big mouth while I just sat there.

I hope you and Billy will have all the happiness in the world. (But I know you will even if you just have each other.)

I sure am going to miss you next year. In fact I'll probably be lost, but I'll try to hold down the old "fort".

Remember I love ya, Bun.

Aun

You are a very sweet girl & deserve
the very best in life.
I hope you & Billy will be very happy. Just as happy as Dickin & I are!
Love ya!
C. L. L.

Dear "Bunny",
I really don't know
how to start this off
'cause I really never knew you until this year, but I can truthfully say that you are one swell girl & I'll never forget you. I here's just one thing I want + that's when you & Billy get married, I'd better be invited.

I'll be thinking of you, always,
always,
Tim

to my Bum, who is the sweetest and most wonderful person in the whole world. This has been for me, Bum!
you and I together will have many more just like this one. I hope you have been as happy as I have. (you better!)
Someday, you and I can look back upon this year and remember how much fun it has been.
This has really been a wonderful year except for a few things. Broken leg & broken nose.
I'll always love you, Bummy, more than anybody in the whole world.
Your stinker,
Billy

P.S.

I love you!!
